

March 31, 2011

This is an exciting time for us: the Clemson ASHRAE student chapter has now been founded! James Wood, a student of Clemson University and recipient of the Benny Bootle ASHRAE scholarship, has succeeded in organizing fellow students to obtain the charter. I am also happy to report that the Clemson chapter faculty representative, Dr. Richard Miller, has graciously stepped up and taken an active role in the founding process. The official charter will be sent out soon, following a formal vote at the meeting in Montreal; next Clemson will receive their banner, certificate, and manual from ASHRAE.

Please join us for our first meeting on April 12, 2011 at Clemson University. We will be providing a tailgate party for the new ASHRAE chapter at 5:30 and stay for the Clemson Baseball Team's game versus Presbyterian College at 6:30. Fellow members of ASHRAE of Greenville are encouraged to support the new Clemson chapter so that the initial meetings can be successful. Some members on the board of governors have agreed to participate in the first kick-off meeting and we will organize other members to play a role in future meetings at Clemson. I am happy to announce the following Clemson University students as the Clemson ASHRAE Student Chapter founding members:
